

University of Washington EBP Workforce Lecture Series Presents:

Promoting First Relationships

with Dr. Susan Spieker and Dr. Monica Oxford

Our presenters have conducted 2 randomized control trials of Promoting First Relationships® in child welfare specifically for children aged birth to three.

Promoting First Relationships was found to:
improve parenting sensitivity,
enhance child outcomes,
and reduce foster care placements.

Drs. Oxford and Spieker will discuss the method of service used for Promoting First Relationships and summarize the outcomes and implications of this work.

November 4, 2016

12:30 to 1:30pm

Casey Family Programs
1123 23rd Avenue
Seattle, WA 98122

Doors open at 12:00pm

CEUs available*

Please RSVP
soon

LIMITED SEATS
AVAILABLE!

Special thanks to:
Casey Family Programs
University of Washington's Family and Child Nursing

*CEU credit hours will be offered through UW Department of Psychology

Please email Cathea Carey at cmc37@uw.edu to RSVP or to ask for more information

Brought to you by the Evidence-Based Practice Institute

Visit <https://depts.washington.edu/pbhjp/about/home> for more lectures and trainings